

Bruce Kuhn Biography Variations

Longer Professional for Universities/Theatres

Bruce Kuhn performed on Broadway in Les Misérables, in the National Tours of Chess and Cotton Patch Gospel and in the resident company of the acclaimed Actor's Theatre of Louisville in roles as diverse as D'Artagnan in The Three Musketeers and Puck in A Midsummer Night's Dream, as well as The Gospel of Luke. He now tours his one-man shows to universities and churches throughout North America and Europe. His conference appearances include Urbana ('93, '96 and '00), Vision New England Congresses, Keswick Conventions in England, as well as outreaches with Michael Green and Franklin Graham. He has taught storytelling at Regent College in Canada, Oxford University in England, and for the International Fellowship of Evangelical Students (IFES) in nine countries. He received his classical training and Master of Fine Arts from the University of Washington in Seattle, and later trained with Uta Hagen in New York City. He is husband to Hetty, a landscape artist, and father to Frits (7) and Juliette (5).
www.brucekuhn.com